Board of Trustees

Barton Community College is governed by a six-member board of trustees elected from Barton County and coordinated by the Kansas Board of Regents. Three positions on the board come up for election every two years (odd-numbered years; i.e. 2009). The terms are four years. You must be a resident of Barton County to be a trustee. You may file for a trustee position by appearing in person at the Barton County Clerk's office by the deadline established by that office and paying the required filing fee of $5. Your name will be placed on the ballot for the November election of that year. Newly elected trustees take office the following January.

The Barton Community College Board of Trustees is proud to present the Community Report, an annual publication highlighting the college's progress in meeting the direction established by your elected board. More than 250 copies of the publication are sent to school boards, county commissions and city councils in the college's state-designated seven-county service area, and our state and national elected officials' offices. It is also distributed at college functions throughout the year. To request a hard copy use the form at report.bartonccc.edu.

The Barton Community College Board of Trustees invites you to consider serving the community, the college and its students by running for a position on the Board. Your personal and professional experience, like that of past and present trustees, provides the essence of the board's local control. Likewise, it is important that the board has members from throughout Barton County in order to provide true representation of the county stakeholders.

In general, the board meets twice each month; once in study session and once for its regular meeting. Trustees may also attend state and national conferences if they choose.

POLICY GOVERNANCE

The Barton Board has adopted policy governance as its means to oversee the college. Policy governance is a fundamental redesign of empowerment of both board and staff, providing leaders the strategic ability to lead. Under policy governance, a board crafts its values into policies of four types: ENDS, executive limitations, board-executive linkage and governance process. Except for what belongs in bylaws or enabling statutes, these categories of board policy contain everything the board has to say about values and perspectives that underlie all organizational decisions, activities, practices, budgets and goals. Because values permeate and dominate all organizational life, redesigning policy in this way presents the most powerful lever for expressing board leadership.

“The beauty of policy governance is that it delineates clearly the role of the board and that of the president. The board knows what the president’s responsibilities are and can hold him accountable.”

– Past Board Chairman
Robert Feldt

ENDS: The board defines which human needs are to be met, for whom and at what cost. Written with a long-term perspective, these mission-related policies embody the board’s long-range vision.

Executive Limitations: The board establishes the boundaries of acceptability within which staff methods and activities can reasonably be left to staff. These limiting policies apply to staff means rather than ends.

Board-Staff Linkage: The board clarifies the manner in which it delegates authority to staff as well as how it evaluates staff performance on provision of the ends and executive limitations policies.

Governance Process: The board determines its philosophy, its accountability, and specifics of its own job. The effective design of its own board processes ensures that the board will fulfill its three primary responsibilities:

- 1) maintaining links to the ownership,
- 2) establishing four categories of written policies, and
- 3) assuring executive performance within the context of overall institutional performance.
